

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

After an e-mail address has been designated from a portable terminal and an e-mail and its attachment file have been transmitted together to a mail server, the e-mail address, an ID, a password, and the like are input via an input device of fixed terminals installed at various stores which the public can make use of. The e-mail and its attachment file at the e-mail address are then extracted from the mail server and are printed out at the fixed terminals.